

Have you ever considered being a tutor?

SP Tutors – Free Training Opportunity & The National Tutoring Programme

No doubt, you will have seen the headlines regarding the Government's £1bn catch-up tutoring fund for England's pupils. No doubt, too, you will have many unanswered questions:

How will it work? How do I find out about being a tutor? Who can tutor? Why would I want to be a tutor?

We aim to answer many of these questions in a free 2-hour initial training session on:

- Wednesday 15th July 5pm-7pm or
- Friday 17th July 2pm-4pm or
- Saturday 18th July 10am-12pm

Book directly, for free on Eventbrite: <https://bit.ly/SPTutorsInitialTraining>

This initial training will give potential tutors the information they require to decide whether tutoring is for them, and what they would gain from training with SP Tutors.

If you would like to register your interest in SP Tutors 'Becoming a Great Tutor' programme and receive more information (as we receive it from the Government) but are not able to attend the free initial training, please fill in the form on this page:

WHY BECOME A TUTOR?

Tutoring has long been accessed by pupils whose parents can afford it. This is an opportunity to provide tutoring for those whose parents cannot access it and who need it even more in terms of catching up with their peers.

The effectiveness of one-to-one tutors has been well-researched and, when done right, can boost progress by up to an additional five months of progress.

Tutoring as a job can be very rewarding; a chance to change a young person's life for the better whilst earning some money for yourself.

It has the potential to fit around other commitments in your life, it is a chance to contribute positively to your community and it can provide you with experience for future employment (if appropriate to you).

WHO ARE SP TUTORS?

Schools Partnership Tutors Ltd (SP Tutors) is a new organisation, established so that schools can work in partnership, to make the most effective use possible of tutoring. We are supported by Norwich Research School and Unity Research school to provide the high-quality, evidence-informed tutor training we will be offering. We will also be able to link schools with tutors we know have entered our programme with the very serious intention of making a difference, and who are well-equipped to do so.

We will provide you with the tutoring training you will require to be successful. Our access to national experts on Tackling Disadvantage, and Research Schools for evidence-informed strategies, means we can tailor course modules to fit your tutoring needs. We can help you find a tutoring placement, but we know that it doesn't stop there. We intend to provide ongoing support to:

- keep you up-to-speed with the changing needs of your tutoring placement
- facilitate peer discussion so you can share great ideas and offer great solutions
- guide you on the pastoral needs of your tutoring placement so that positive relationships are formed between tutor and pupil
- maintain a great relationship between you and the class teacher so that learning is tailored to pupil's needs – complementing work going on in school
- grow your confidence, so that you can grow theirs.
